

MAR 8 1965

(Secret Agent)

New Spy Movie Has 3 Directors

"The Secret Agents," a contemporary spy drama based on an original script by Terence Young, is being filmed in Rome, Paris, Berlin and Africa under three different directors. Christian-Jaque is directing the French scenes; Carlo Lizzani, the Italian scenes, and Young himself, the Berlin scenes. The cast includes Robert Ryan as an American general, Henry Fonda as an American spy, Bourvil as a French spy and Vittorio Gassman as an Italian spy impersonating a Russian spy. . . . Ryan and Fonda also will star in "Battle of the Bulge," a World War II drama, for Warner Brothers. Robert Shaw and Dana Andrews are also in this one. . . . Shelley Winters and Sidney Poitier will star in "A Patch of Blue," a romantic drama about a blind girl, for MGM.